Information

Here we have the Buccaneer 550 Classic. A fine example of a well-renowned fiberglass boat in New Zealand that incorporates both modern styling and a functional layout to give you a vessel that is an all-round serious performer. For over 40 years, Kiwi families and fishermen have been enjoying Buccaneer boats, for their excellence of 'right first-time' philosophy and superior high manufacturing quality results in boats that look stylish, but also are built to withstand the test of time.

At just under 5.8m in hull length, the 550 Classic is a small boat with a big boat feel. The high cockpit coamings, volumized cabin area, and wide-bodied deep v hull all contribute to the success of this boat. There's plenty of headroom right forward, with enough seating inside the cabin for four people comfortably. If you're looking to overnight, don't fear as the spacious cabin with the placement of an infill squab allows you to do so. Safe and easy anchoring can be achieved through the forward hatch at the front. At the helm, there is excellent visibility all around on the pedestal seat, whether you're seated or standing, along with the throttle/gearshift control lever being in good reach.

The seating arrangements are topped off with king/ queen passenger seats, along with rear quarter seats at the back which are removable to offer more space.
